DR. FLINT SAYS TERRANOVA GIRL IS SHAMMING

He Declares She Is Sane and Says Her Stories About Voices and Visions Are False—Not Subject to Hallucinations.

That Josephine Terranova was sane when she killed her aunt and uncle, and that her stories of hearing voices and seeing visions are false and "shamming," was charged by Dr. Austin G. Flint, expert alienist called by the State to-day.

Following the finding of the State to-day the lunacy commission appointed by the Court that she is able to consult with her counsel and therefore sane enough to be tried, the case was resumed, and Dr. Flint was the star witness.

In reply to a question as to her hallucinations and her story of voices telling her to "kill," he said:

"I am convinced she is telling a story that is not true. I believe she is shamming."

For the first time Josephine showed nervousness at this. She scowled, drawing her heavy black brows down, and tapped vigorously on the table with her fingers. She had, however, even sally, received the news that the "jury of fathers" would be allowed to pass upon her deed.

For four days she has suffered torments equalled only by those she underwent in the home of her brutal uncle and godfather, Gaetano Riggio and his wife, Concetta. She has been put through torture tests which Mulberry street's third degree would seem mild.

The commission made its report to Justice Scott in his chamber. The members were Drs. Lewis Balch and William Mahon and Lawyer William L. Parrie. In summing up the result of their investigation, they said:

"While we find that the girl has had hallucinations, and still has them, we feel confident she is able to advise and consult with her counsel during the remainder of the trial."

Meanwhile Josephine had been informed of the good news. She was brought over the bridge of signs from the Tombs.

Bows to the Jury.

The "jury of fathers" headed by Foreman Burg, was already in the box. Pennsylvania Railroad to report to-day. Josephine bowed awkwardly to them and then gave an extra nod and a toothy smile to several whom she confidently thinks are more than ordinarily sympathetic.

The first witness was Matron O'Brien, of the Tombs. She said that during the time Josephine has been a prisoner she has done nothing irrational and had picked up a fairly good knowledge of English. Also, the matron said, the girl has improved remarkably in her physical condition during her stay there.

Dr. John E. Weeks, an optician, who examined Josephine at the request of the lunacy commission, said that as a result of his investigation he is of the opinion that, while she is subject to hysteria or "adolescent insanity," he would not say she is insane. When questioned further he said:

"The hysteria is not in any way due to insanity."

Dr. Austin E. Flint said he went to the Tombs on May 15 with Dr. Charles McDonald, Judge Paulnet and a stenographer. He said he made an extended examination as to the prisoner's mental and physical condition. He said he discovered "nothing abnormal."

In speaking of his test he said: "I stuck pins in her right leg and she told me she could feel no pain. She told me at times she had no feeling in her legs. She introduced him to a couple of American gentlemen, a game of bridge was proposed and Marquis Goodhardt lost $300 in cash and a note for $125. A Western business man lost $700 at one bridge session in which the blonde was a player."

Three of the sure-thing men represented themselves as capitalists of Gottfried, Nev. By the judicious use of fake wireless messages they are said to have completely cleaned out C. J. Preusser, and to have sold about $5,000 worth of mining stock in Nevada. The stock bears evidence of having been kicked off on a foot power press, but the victims appear to be willing to pocket their losses, for there were no complaints made on the pier.

Heard Voice Say "Kill."

Dr. Flint then resumed the stand. He said that Josephine told him and the others who went to her cell the full story of her relations with her uncle, Riggio. He said the story differed in no particular from the revolting tale he told on the witness-stand. "She told us," said Dr. Flint, "that

CONTENT WINS BAYCHESTER AT BELMONT

At Short Odds Defeats First Premium and Belle of Pequest

RYE WINS ANOTHER.

Nannie Hodge Performs Consistently by Galloping Off with the Final Event.

BY FRANK W. THORP.

BELMONT PARK RACE TRACK, May 29.—There was little outside of the ordinary at Belmont Park, the only race of real interest being the second, a dash for two-year-olds. In this race W. H. Daniel, who was recently sold to E. S. Burke for $25,000, was named as a starter, and there was much curiosity expressed as to whether he would prove himself a real race horse or only the imitation article. In his second race this $25,000 beauty ran like a world-beater. It so impressed his present owner that he immediately dug into his purse and became the owner of the supposed crack.

In W. H. Daniel's last race, however, he ran like a counterfeit, so that today's race served to prove either one thing or the other. He had no speed to-day. He was favorite, but was beaten off by Convillie and Russell T. It will be some time before W. H. Daniel is an even money race again.

In the Bay Chester Stakes a very common lot faced the starter, with Content a favorite. Miller got away slowly with Content, but she was so much the best that she easily made up the lost ground and breezed home a handy winner from First Premium, who was an added starter. Rye won the opening event easily from Broadcloth.

Broadcloth Was Odds-On. They made Broadcloth a 4 to 5 favorite in the opening event, with Rye the strong second choice. They went away to a good break and Rye soon angled out from the bunch, making the running. H. Daniel, Hapgood and Red River laid in close behind. There was no change to the last furlong, when Convillie and Russell T. were close at hand. In the stretch Rye came away still further, and without any trouble, won by three lengths from Broadcloth, who, under a hard drive, beat Van Ness six lengths for the place.

Convillie Wins Driving. Russell T. and Convillie went to the front soon after the start and raced head and head in front of the favorite, H. Daniel. Hapgood and Red River laid in close behind. There was no change to the last furlong, when Convillie and Russell T. were close at hand. In the stretch Rye came away still further, and without any trouble, won by three lengths from Broadcloth, who, under a hard drive, beat Van Ness six lengths for the place.

Content Much the Best. There were three additions to the Baychester in First Premium, Larabie and the Clown. Content was made the favorite, and she was much the best. In the first fifty yards she was last of the bunch. Miller was patient on Content, while Larabie, Belle of Pequest and Samson raced in close order to the stretch. There Content, who laid back, gradually made up lost ground, turned in on the rail and taking the lead went to the front and won easily by three lengths from First Premium, who closed strong and beat Belle of Pequest a neck for the place.

Glencoe to 10 to 1. Neptunus made the running, followed by Yada, Glencoe and Jack McKee. They laid this order to the stretch, where Yada went to the front. In the run home Glencoe closed and, coming away, won easily by two lengths from Yada, who was three lengths in front of King Cole.

Nannie Wins Again. Nannie Hodge went to the front and stayed there, winning cleverly by a length from Diamond Flush, who beat Bill Phillips three lengths for the place.

DAVITT GROWS WEAKER; DEATH NOT FAR OFF.

DUBLIN, May 29.—The bulletin issued to-day by the physicians attending Michael Davitt says that he continues to lose ground, although he is resting quietly and is free from pain.

BLONDE HELPED CARD SHARPS TO CLEAN UP SHIP

Gamblers Got $10,000 from Passengers on the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

It reports spread by passengers aboard the North German Lloyd liner Kronprinz Wilhelm upon her arrival from Bremen this afternoon are true the name of the ship should be changed to "The Soft-Mark's Retreat."

It was positively stated that a collection of half a dozen sure-thing gamblers and confidence men, with the able assistance of a large, fascinating blonde woman, had cleaned up $10,000 on the trip. The alleged crooks all pursued different paths from the pier, followed by groans of anguish in two or three languages and fifteen dialects, the same issuing from various and sundry losers.

The six men and the blonde boarded the vessel at Cherbourg and no one appeared to be acquainted with the other. They hadn't been on board ten hours when Jean Bodin, a theatrical manager, proclaimed that a total stranger had taught him some clever tricks with dice at an expense of $300. The seamen lasted ten minutes.

There was a conference among the officers of the vessel and a big notice was posted, "Beware of gamblers." But nobody heeded or heeded or what ever they should have done.

One Marquis Goodhardt, of foreign parts, became acquainted with the blonde. She introduced him to a couple of American gentlemen, a game of bridge was proposed and Marquis Goodhardt lost $300 in cash and a note for $125. A Western business man lost $700 at one bridge session in which the blonde was a player.

Three of the sure-thing men represented themselves as capitalists of Gottfried, Nev. By the judicious use of fake wireless messages they are said to have completely cleaned out C. J.
